

Nancy Maddox Lytle, AICP

Nancy Lytle is Vice President of Projects and Development for the Southeastern Economic Corporation (SEDC). She has 26 years of experience as a redevelopment agency manager and city planner. At SEDC Ms. Lytle is responsible for redevelopment transactions, capital projects and strategic planning. Her past positions include:

- Acting and Assistant Director of Planning and Building, City of Chula Vista (2005-2008)
- Downtown Manager, San Jose Redevelopment Agency (1997 – 2005)
- Chief Planning Official, City of Palo Alto (1988-1997)
- Planning Director, Los Altos Hills (1985 -1988)

Throughout her career her contributions to the profession have been recognized by her peers. Her achievements include:

- American Planning Association highest honors for Community Outreach and Implementation Plans in the San Diego Region, 2007;
- American Planning Association highest honors for Best Implementation Plan in the San Diego Region, 2007;
- San Jose Mayor's Award for Strong Neighborhoods Initiative, 2001 recognized by the League of Cities as a national model for civic engagement and neighborhood revitalization;
- Governor's Award for Historic Preservation, Montgomery Hotel Relocation, 1999;
- 3 CMA Savvy Award for Best Community Visioning Process, City of Palo Alto, Sept 1995;
- American Planning Association Award, Single Family Regulations, City of Palo Alto, Northern California Chapter, 1990

Ms. Lytle has served on the Boards of the Palo Alto Redevelopment Agency, Santa Clara Water District Flood Control Advisory Commission, Palo Alto YMCA, Association of Senior Day Health and Adolescent Counseling Services and was a longtime girl scout leader and Rotary Club member. In 2000, Ms. Lytle had the distinction of being elected the youngest member on the Palo Alto City Council. This nine member Council represents a city of 70,000 residents. Palo Alto is home to Stanford University and is considered "the birthplace of Silicon Valley".

She holds a B.A. in geography and environmental studies from UC Santa Barbara and post graduate studies in geography and planning, UC Davis. She became a member of the American Institute of Certified Planners in 1998 and has been an active member of the California Redevelopment Association, American Planning Association, California League of Cities, and Congress for New Urbanism.